Building a Better

FUTURE

The students at Holmes Community College have all taken different roads that have led them to this point where their paths have converged. Some of the students have just graduated from high schools that are close to one of Holmes' three campuses. Other students have come from as far away as Florida or Delaware to participate in athletics. Holmes also has students who have been working for a number of years and are juggling raising a family with pursuing a new career, which begins with classes at Holmes.

The reasons for choosing Holmes are as varied as the students themselves. But they all share one thing in common: they are working toward their goals at a college that is committed to providing an outstanding education to them. Holmes Community College bridges the gap in where a student is and where that student wants to be by providing a solid foundation that will help them build a better future.

ALFORD WINS CROWN TO REPRESENT HCC

With the theme, "That's Entertainment!," the Miss Holmes Community College Pageant 1998 celebrated the movies of Hollywood and the beauties of Holmes.

Four contestants, Wendy Alford of Lexington, Cory McKnight of Lena, Ashley Melton of Benton and Jenny Watkins of Ridgeland, competed for the crown and the opportunity to represent Holmes at the Miss Mississippi Pageant held annually in Vicksburg in July.

The competition is made up of four components: interview, swimsuit, talent and evening gown. For the talent portion of the competition, Alford, McKnight and Melton sang while Watkins performed a dramatic reading.

Dedication

In the 10 years that Dr. Starkey A. Morgan Sr. has served as president of Holmes Community College, the institution has flourished through a period of great change while maintaining its longstanding tradition of commitment and service.

By creating a vision for the college and crafting that vision into a reality on a day-to-day basis, Morgan has guided the college through a decade of growth, progress and development.

His unselfish devotion and tireless efforts have established an environment which fosters academic excellence. He is a staunch supporter of the faculty and staff and their endeavors.

He maintains an open door to students, creating opportunities for them and encouraging them to achieve. He is concerned with building their character as well as their scholarly accomplishments.

It is for the leadership, dedication and enthusiasm for Holmes Community College that Dr. Starkey A. Morgan Sr. has demonstrated over the past decade, that this, the 70th edition of Horizons, is dedicated our president.

As president of Holmes Community College, Dr. Starkey A. Morgan Sr. has steered the institution through 10 years of growth, achievement and excellence.

Morgan became president on July 1, 1989, the same date the college officially changed its name from "Holmes Junior College" to "Holmes Community College." The change reflected the college's tradition of service to the community that has been a hallmark of the school since its inception.

The change also entered in a new era of progress, commitment and expansion. These changes have been manifested in a number of ways, not the least of which are the physical changes at each of Holmes' three campuses.

New buildings, which meet a variety of needs, have been constructed and several existing facilities have been renovated and expanded. On the Goodman Campus, the Computer Technology Building stands as a testament to the college's commitment to bringing the latest advances in the world of technology into the hands of its students.

Other new buildings constructed on the Goodman Campus include the Kelly Gene Cook Sr. Residence Hall, which provided additional dormitory space for men, and the Observatory, which was a collaborative project involving the National Science Foundation, Holmes faculty and alumni and friends of the college.

Throughout the Goodman Campus are buildings which have been renovated, upgraded and expanded. McDaniel Hall, the oldest building on campus, underwent extensive improvements, including the auditorium, which had remained unused for a number of years prior to these renovations.

The District Administration Building, the dormitories, the Student Center and Carroll Cafeteria have been renovated and/or expanded. A fitness center has been one of the most popular additions to the campus for both students and staff members.

The former president's home, now called Holmes House, was renovated to be used as the alumni house. It is utilized for a variety of meetings and receptions and also provides overnight lodging on the campus.

On the Ridgeland Campus, the Science Building provides students enrolled in the sciences greater lecture and laboratory facilities.

During Morgan's first year as president of Holmes, an addition to the Grenada Center was completed, giving the facility another 50,000 square feet of classrooms, laboratories, offices, an auditorium and bookstore.

The Grenada Center is set for another expansion with the construction of the Technology Training Center. Plans for the building, which represents a collaborative effort of the city, county, business, industry and education, have been completed.

The Attala Education Center opened recently in Kosciusko and meets a variety of educational and training needs.

The new buildings as well as the renovations of existing facilities have been necessitated in part by the increase in enrollment. Each year of Morgan's tenure, the number of students enrolled in the fall has increased. Over the course of the 10 years, fall enrollment has increased 37 percent.

The college's first permanent endowment was established with funds raised by the HCC Development Foundation Inc. The Development Foundation was reorganized in 1990-91 and obtained a challenge grant from the U.S. Department of Education and the Kelly Gene Cook Sr. Foundation. The total amount invested now stands at more than double the $1,000,000 original endowment.

Offerings in the classroom continue to expand, with new programs ranging from surgical technology to mortuary science to occupational therapist assistant. An art department is slated to return to the Goodman Campus next fall.

Keeping pace with advancing technology, Holmes offered an on-line course for the first time this year.

Athletics continue to thrive, with the addition of women's softball, tennis, golf and women's soccer. Men's soccer, with a team at both the Ridgeland Campus and the Grenada Center, is the first team to be fielded.

by Holmes' satellite campuses. Cross country and track for both men and women were brought back after a number of years dormant.

The fine arts department has also grown and expanded its offerings over the past decade. The choral music department has added The Holmes Connection!

show choir and increased the size of Coachmen and the Concert Choir, which made its international debut in Spain in 1997.

The band department includes a steel drum band and a percussion ensemble along with the marching band, jazz band and concert band. The drama dept. continues to entertain audiences each semester and appearances in special events such as the annual Tennessee Williams festival.

Holmes' three chapters of Phi Theta Kappa, Kappa Alpha, Goodman Campus; Alpha Lambda Sigma, Ridgeland Campus; and Alpha Mu Beta, Grenada Center, continue to be an integral part of the college.

Last year, Dan Osborne, a member of Kappa Alpha was selected as one of USA Today's Top Twenty Two-year College Students in the nation. Osborne, a first team member, was recognized in Miami at Phi Theta Kappa's international convention.

Morgan's support of the national and local chapters of Phi Theta Kappa was recognized with his selection for honorary membership in the organization.

Morgan was also recognized for his contributions to economic development in Mississippi when he was named Volunteer of the Year by the Southern Economic Development Council.

Great strides have been made in bringing technology to the classrooms and offices of Holmes. A fiber optic network has been completed and all the campuses have been wired for Internet access, e-mail and electronic compatibility with current communications platforms.

However, the utilization of technology has not lessened the personal interaction between faculty and students that has made Holmes such a special place to obtain an education throughout the years.

Holmes Community College's commitment to excellence in education and service to the community remains at the core of its mission, which enables the college to expand and strengthen throughout the years.

Under Dr. Starkey A. Morgan Sr.'s leadership, Holmes Community College has become an institution that stands poised to embrace the challenges of the next century and the next millennium.

BUILDING A Better BRIDGE

By Desmond Purnell

One of the most attractive features of the Goodman Campus, the bridge spanning the body of water behind Kelly Gene Cook Dorm is the tangible evidence of the dedication of a number of Holmes Community College students and staff members.

At the suggestion of Dr. Starkey A. Morgan Sr., president of Holmes, Bobby Gibson, Terry Cox and W.A. Miles, engineering technology instructors, completed some preliminary drawings, which were approved by Morgan with one stipulation. He suggested a curved bridge rather than a flat one.

So Gibson, Cox and the Engineering Technology Department went back to the drawing board and made the necessary alterations. A committee was also set up to oversee the project.

Then the construction phase began. The steel arc was fabricated in Birmingham, Ala. The wood was supplied by Hankins Lumber Co. in Grenada.

The welding class created the infrastructure of the bridge, while collision repair instructor Eddie Ellis and his workstudy provided the finishing touches by painting it.

After painting, the bridge was carried to the lake and set in place by the Engineering Technology Department and a crane service.

The bridge was placed on concrete abutments that were surveyed and constructed by the Engineering Technology Department. This was probably the most critical phase of the project in that everything had to be precise for the bridge to sit in place. There was only room for a small margin of error between the abutments and the bridge.

All the students who participated in the project were able to gain valuable experience in their field of study as well as hone their problem-solving skills in seeing this project through to fruition.

"There were very few problems. The students did a lot of the back-breaking work and the bridge could not have been built without them," said Gibson.

The bridge not only adds to the physical beauty of the campus, but it also adds to its tranquility.

"There is nothing more relaxing than going to the bridge on a nice cool day to do a little fishing," said freshman Curtis Robinson.

Goodman Campus students enjoy the bridge in a variety of ways and for an assortment of reasons.

"I enjoy taking walks across the bridge. I also love looking at my reflection in the pond," said sophomore Misty Black.

As a token of appreciation for their hard work and dedication to the project, Special Service Awards were given to Cham Blain, Terry Cox, Eddie Ellis, Bobby Gibson; and W.A. Miles during homecoming.

RIDGELAND CAMPUS BUILDS BETTER FUTURE WITH NEW PROGRAMS, COURSES

The Ridgeland Campus continues to help students build a better future with the establishment of two new programs and a course offered in a new format.

One of the new programs is occupational therapy assistant. Occupational therapy helps people of all ages prevent, reduce or overcome effects of disabilities. "Occupation" does not simply refer to a person's job or vocation; "occupation" can be anything that occupies your time, anything that a person does during daily living.

The occupational therapist assistant works with the occupational therapist and uses activities, such as games or crafts, with specific goals to help the patient, who may be impaired by physical illness or injury, psycho-social disability, developmental deficits or aging, to obtain or regain skills ranging from brushing his teeth or preparing a meal.

Applicants to the two-year program must submit an application and letters of reference, complete an interview by the admissions committee and document 15 observation hours in at least three different occupational therapy settings.

Holmes is in the process of being accredited and has completed the requisite first step prior to student enrollment. This is followed by a self-study and an on-site visit prior to the first class' graduation in 2001.

Graduates of the program will receive an associate of applied science degree. Upon accreditation by the American Occupational Therapy Association, students will be eligible to sit for the national certification examination for the occupational therapist assistant which is administered by the National Board of Certification of Occupational Therapy.

A wide variety of career opportunities will be available to students completing the program. Occupational therapist assistants work in a number of settings including acute care hospitals, school systems, outpatient clinics, mental health centers and neonatal intensive care units. They usually work regular hours Monday through Friday and avoid the shift work which comes with many health care professions.

However, the true rewards come from enabling a patient to lead a fuller, more independent life by helping them to improve their coordination, strength and mental hygiene.

Another new program offered on the Ridgeland Campus is the computer network support technology program, which will train students to manage, install and administer networks. As businesses, government agencies and other organizations buy more computers, software and related equipment, there is a greater need for personnel who can maintain these complex systems.

What separates this program from the computer science programs of the past is that it is geared specifically toward a network environment, rather than the single-computer systems of the past.

In order to stay at the forefront of the rapidly-advancing technology, the program will have an advisory committee made up of leaders of the digital technology-based industry who are on the cutting edge of telecommunications technology.

Students who will have the opportunity to use the skills they have obtained in the classrooms in an internship environment.

Completion of the program and an internship will make the graduate particularly attractive in the job market.

Holmes is also using the latest technology to make classes even more accessible to the student. An online course, Computer Concepts CSC 1113, was offered for the first time during the spring semester.

Taught by Ridgeland Campus computer science instructor Elizabeth Weidman, this course introduces the student to the basic concepts and structure of computers and computer programming, data representation, machine logic and the history of computing.

It also serves as an introduction to BASIC programming, word processing, data base and spreadsheets.

In order to avail themselves of this opportunity, students must have convenient access to a computer with Internet access and Microsoft Office 97, or equivalent, software. Holmes has computer facilities which can be utilized.

It is possible to complete the entire course without coming to one of Holmes' three campuses, so the student can easily work it into his schedule and never have to worry about being late for class.

CAMPAIGN TO BUILD BETTER FUTURE FOR GRENADA

Since its inception, the Grenada Center of Holmes has continued to put the student first by offering courses and programs, from academic transfer to technical, that will help him to build a better future.

The healthcare related programs have remained one of the Grenada Center's greatest strengths. For years, the associate degree nursing program and the licensed practical nursing program have produced some of the area's finest nurses. The surgical technology program, a recent addition to the Grenada Center's offerings, continues the tradition of excellence.

With other technical programs, ranging from business and office technology to forest technology to electronics technology, the Grenada Center has continued to strengthen the workforce of Grenada and the surrounding area by providing knowledgeable and skilled workers to area businesses and industries.

The partnership between the Grenada Center and the surrounding community has existed since the center was established and has strengthened throughout the years.

The strength of this union was manifested in a formal way in mid-January at the Forward Grenada Campaign Kickoff. Held in the forum at the Grenada Center, the event served as the official launching of a campaign to raise the funds necessary to complete the construction of the Industrial Technology Training Center.

The unique collaboration among the city, county, business and industry and education will result in a facility that is of great benefit to both the college and the community.

LAMPLIGHTERS FIND BETTER WAYS TO BUILD BRIDGES TO KNOWLEDGE

Each fall two experienced instructors from each campus or center of each community or junior college in Mississippi are invited to attend the Lamplighters Project, which is an annual conference that promotes learning and helps them to improve their teaching techniques.

This is the eighth year that Holmes Community college has participated in this meeting. Each instructor selected is recommended by the academic dean or vice president at each campus and is approved by the president, Dr. Starkey A. Morgan Sr.

The criteria for recommendation are: (1) they must be an experienced instructor and have been at Holmes Community College for at least five years; and (2) this is their first time to be selected to attend.

PTK PRESENTS ACADEMIC CHALLENGE FOR BEST STUDENTS IN STATE

Six of Holmes' most outstanding students have been chosen to represent Holmes Community College as members of the 1999 Mississippi All-State Academic Team, sponsored by Phi Theta Kappa International Honor Society, the Mississippi Association of Community and Junior Colleges, and "The Clarion Ledger."

With international headquarters located in Jackson, Phi Theta Kappa is the honor society for two-year schools. Each PTK chapter in the state chooses two of its members to represent it on the All-State Academic Team. Selection is based on the students scholastic achievements, community involvement, leadership capabilities, and college service activities. This information is submitted to a panel of independent judges along with faculty recommendations and an essay written by the student. These judges choose ten students as members of the first team based on these applications.

The six Holmes students selected were honored at a luncheon in Jackson along with the other students chosen from throughout the state.

SCHOLARS BOWL TEAM

SHOWS BEAUTY OF BRAINS

Each year, on the second weekend in February, the University of Mississippi campus in Oxford becomes a lot like the Jeopardy! studio in California. Minus Alex Tribeck, of course.

It is during that time that the best and brightest community college students from across the state descend on Ole Miss to compete in the Ken Wooten Scholars Bowl.

Each community college campus with full campus status may enter a team, which consists of four members and two alternates. Contestants must answer questions ranging from math to science to history to literature.

Each year, Holmes send two teams, one from the Goodman Campus and one from the Ridgeland Campus. The Goodman Campus team brought home the trophy in 1998, setting a prime example for this year's team to

The Goodman Campus team is selected from the Honors Forum class and spends hours preparing for the competition by answering study questions and competing against one another.

DORM LIFE PROVIDES MOMENTS TO REMEMBER

By Jennifer Pigg

Goodman Campus students are given the opportunity to experience a facet of college life that students have enjoyed as long as colleges and universities have existed.

By living in one of five dorms that are located on the campus, they are available to participate in the evening activities on campus.

Each dorm has a different history and personality. Stories about dorm life often revolve around studying and talking late into the night, the fire alarms being pulled and standing outside in the cold weather and pulling pranks on unsuspecting roommates and suitemates.

Although these things are common to all the dorms, each one is unique and has its own personality. Some students enjoy the conveniences of living in the newer dorms, such as Yazoo and Cook, while others prefer the homey atmosphere of the oldest dorm, Grenada. Some guys enjoy the central location of Motel, while others like being away from it all in Attala.

Regardless of each dorm you choose, there are advantages and disadvantages to each of them. The advantages include being able to stay on campus when you live far away, you want to meet new people, you want to gain independence or you want to be active in campus activities.

Even the occasional noise in the hall or having to share a bathroom isn't so bad when you think about it. After all, spending time with your friends in the dorm can offer some of the most memorable moments of college.

STUDENTS CHOOSE TO COMMUTE FOR VARIETY OF REASONS

by Sundra Williams

One of the most attractive features of a community college is that it is accessible to a wide variety of students. Many of the students at Holmes commute on a daily basis.

Both the Ridgeland Campus and Grenada Center are strictly commuter campuses. Goodman Campus students who choose not to live on campus come from communities such as Pickens, Kosciusko, Lexington, Durant, Sallis, McAdams, Carthage and Ethel.

During the 1998-99 school year, nearly half of the full-time enrolled students were commuters.

The lifestyles of commuter students and dorm students differ in many ways, yet their purpose is the same. They all want a quality education.

A dorm student can go back to their dorm room in between classes and relax, while a commuter student goes to his car, to the library, "The Can," to a friend's house, or home if it is close enough.

Many commuter students are non-traditional students, which means they may be older, have families and perhaps full-time jobs. Most dorm students do not have children, spouses or full-time jobs.

Involvement in school activities is difficult for commuters due to scheduling and commitments at home and at their jobs. Still, there are some who get invited to join Phi Theta Kappa and others who find the time to join organizations such as "Horizons" and "the Growl."

Holmes Community College has always had a variety of students from different backgrounds and lifestyles. Whether dorm student or commuter student, the quality of education received is the same.

HOMECOMING '98

Hollywood HOMECOMING

Bringing a touch of the glamour of Hollywood to Holmes for the week of homecoming, the student's activities centered around the theme, "Hollywood Homecoming."

Each day, a movie was selected to provide the dress code.

On Monday, the movie chosen was the popular musical "Grease." Girls wore felt poodle skirts while the guys rolled up their jeans and wore their hair in ducktails.

Tuesday's movie was "M*A*S*H," so students had a choice of either wearing scrubs like the medical personnel or camouflage like the patients.

"The Brady Bunch" was selected as the movie for the day so students were able to dress in the groovy styles of the seventies, with many co-eds donning mini-skirts just like "Marsha, Marsha, Marsha."

As Thursday's theme, the classic college flick, "Animal House" encouraged everyone to wear togas.

Symbolizing of the pain and destruction the Bulldogs planned to wreak on Mississippi Delta, students wore black under the auspices of the movie,

"Men in Black."

Other activities of the week included the football search, in which students received clues each day leading to the place where the football was hidden. Sam Hamburg proved to be the best detective and located the football first.

Club members spent many hours working on the banners that were displayed all over campus from Wednesday through homecoming.

Thursday's activities included the annual Sidewalk Cafe, a parade, a pep rally and an outdoor dance.

C A NIGHT TO celebrate

"A Night to Celebrate" was the theme for the 1998 Beauty Review on the Goodman Campus of Holmes Community College.

The annual event was under the direction of Kimberly Stoker, who was aided by assistant directors Lindy McCain and Mark Deason, Goodman Campus; Joye Jones and Kathy Pace, Ridgeland Campus; and Joe Fondren and Myra Harville, Grenada Center. The publicity director was Caron Blanton.

There were 34 contestants who participated in the pageant. The competition consists of an interview held in the afternoon prior to the pageant and evening gown competition. After these two segments of the competition, the top ten contestants are named. With all prior scores deleted, the ten finalists return to the stage for final judging. From that, four beauties and a most beautiful are named.

more from the Ridgeland Campus, was crowned most beautiful. The four beauties were Shannon Childress, a sophomore from the Goodman Campus; Ashley Curtis, a sophomore on the Ridgeland Campus; Samantha Marchant, a freshman at the Grenada Center; and Amanda Pippen, a freshman on the Goodman Campus.

Megan Young, a former Miss Natchez Trace, served as mistress of ceremonies and provided the entertainment for the evening.

If it's entertainment you're looking for, the clubs Holmes can provide it. Whether you want to be onstage or backstage, there is a club to fit almost any talent or skill in the realm of performing arts that a student might have.

In the drama department, Delta Psi Omega and Holme-Towne Players work together to produce a play each semester. Goodman Campus speech and drama instructor Rita Jones serves as the adviser for both groups. In the fall, they presented "A Night of One-Acts," which included "Who's on First" by Harold J. Gilles; "Echo" by Robert Kasper; "Sin in the South" by Diane Gallo; "The Love Knot" by Michael McFaden; and "The Three Faces of Christmas" by Anne Coulter Martens.

In the spring, they selected "Arsenic and Old Lace" to perform.

"My students work really hard and are very talented at what they do," said Jones.

Those who like to sing certainly have no problem finding a group to join at Holmes. The Concert Choir performs primarily classical music, while Coachmen concentrates on sacred music and The Holmes Connetion! is a showchoir which utilizes all kinds of music, from Broadway to popular. All three groups are directed by Jan Reid-Bunch. Janet Simpson and Dr. Kathy King are the accompanists.

"Mrs. Bunch is a real sweet and kind person that is very committed to her groups," said Christe Williams, a member of both Coachmen and the Concert Choir.

In addition to many performances throughout the nine-county district, the groups present two concerts on the Goodman Campus each year. One is a Christmas Concert held at the end of first semester and the other is the Pops Concert held in the spring.

Connection is also another singing club that involves dancing, and is also sponsored by Jan Reid-Bunch. Freshman Tamara O'Bryant said, "I really like and enjoy this club. Connection has also performed a concert here at HCC, and in my eyes they really did a great job."

"I have a real habit of stage freight, but overall I love singing," said Shawonda Coffey, a freshman member of the choir.

Instrumentalists don't have to look very far to find a group to join either. The Marching Band, the Concert Band and the Jazz Band are all under the direction of Gary Sheppard, director of bands. Dr. Darren Duerden, assistant band director, directs the Percussion Ensemble and the Steel Drum Band.

The Marching Band performs during halftime at the football games and marches in numerous parades at Christmas. They also marched in a mardi gras parade in New Orleans.

"This semester really started out on a good foot and I really enjoy working with Mr. Sheppard," said freshman Lovie Simpson.

Through the clubs and organizations at Holmes, you can exercise your mind, your body and even your vocal chords. The performing arts groups at Holmes give students a chance to hone their skills and delight the audience at the same time.

Sharing TODAY'S BLESSINGS

One of the great aspects about Holmes Community College is its spirit of giving. The leaders of Holmes have set a sterling example of this spirit by giving their time and effort to make the college the place it is today.

Many of the clubs and organizations at Holmes reflect this sense of philanthropy in projects throughout the year. They give their time to help and encourage other students who are struggling. During the holiday season, many organizations participate in giving to families and charities in order to make Christmas better for others.

Phi Theta Kappa has for the past six years sponsored the Salvation Army's Angel Tree program.

Through PTK many clubs and students adopt a child for Christmas. Through this project many children throughout Mississippi have awakened to a wonderful Christmas morning.

Members of the Alpha Mu Beta chapter of Phi Theta Kappa have also collected teddy bears to give to the children who are being treated at St. Jude Children's Hospital in Memphis, Tenn.

The Kappa Alpha chapter of PTK also donates part of the proceeds from Sidewalk Cafe to St. Jude's. Sidewalk Cafe, which is also sponsored by SGA and VICA is a time when staff and students have the opportunity to sit down and enjoy home-made baked goods and enjoy listening to music provided by the Jazz Band as well as English instructor and PTK adviser Steve Deaton.

Other organizations that render helping hands to those who need reaching out to are Phi Beta Lambda. Each year members of Phi Beta Lambda take a tour of the Mississippi State Hospital and present gifts to the patients.

In order to provide the means for this mission, once a year they sell Sally Foster wrapping paper and gifts. Orders are usually ordered during the month of October and the products are delivered before Thanksgiving.

Some organizations may not give monetary gifts but they give gifts of time. The Ambassadors serve as welcoming committees for prospective students and other guests on each of Holmes Community College's three campuses. All of these individuals give time, which can be the most valuable gift of all.

Whether it is a gift of money, canned goods, stuffed animals or time sharing today's blessings makes the future better.

Left. Lynne Turnham (left) and Joseph Harris decorate a tree in the lobby of Ridgeland Hall on the Ridgeland Campus. The tree, an annual project of the Ridgeland Phi Theta Kappa chapter, is covered with angels. Each angel contains the name of the resident of Home Place, a nursing home in Madison. Each year students, faculty and staff adopt approximately 130 residents and provide Christmas gifts, which will be delivered on Christmas Eve, for each.

BULLDOGS TRAVEL ROCKY ROAD THROUGH SEASON

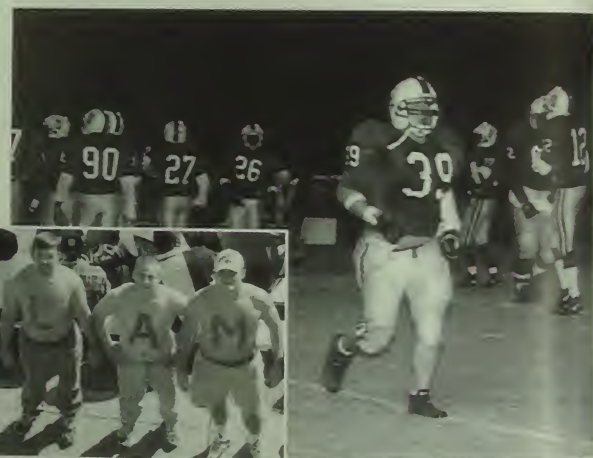

by Desmond Purnell

The 1998 H.C.C. Bulldogs ended up at 5-5 for the season and 3-3 in the division. The expectations were very high for this year's Bulldogs, but head coach Hugh Shurden feels that the Dogs have no reason to hang their heads.

According to Coach Shurden, "Many teams would be proud of a 5-5 season, but we're not. We had large expectations for this year's team. Our first goal at the beginning of the season was to win the north division. The loss of some of our players and all the injuries we dealt with really hurt our chances. But our team showed great character. This team had no quit in them. On certain nights, teams may have beaten us but, they never out worked us. These young men truly saw the value of doing right and giving good effort. Even through all the adversity the players managed to grow together and some of the younger players gained some experience. Because of that experience, we're looking forward to next season. We're expecting a good recruiting class to plug in some of the holes. We're very excited. We're going to put the pieces back together and bounce back for next season," said Shurden.

There's no doubt about it; Chris "Bam Bam" Elam's 1000-yard season was the highlight of the Bulldogs' season.

"Anytime you get a 1000-yard rusher in this league, it's special. We've been fortunate to have had three in the past few years. This is quite an accomplishment for Chris. People have to realize Chris is a freshman, a

How did Elam feel after achieving such a great feat? He replied by saying, "I felt really good when I broke a thousand yards. I was glad to join the other 1000-yard rushers in H.C.C. history, but I give all the credit to the offensive linemen. They are the reason I had such a great year."

Chris went on to talk about the team and his future. "I feel that we have a very close team. The players are all good friends of mine. The coaching and training staffs here are very good. They teach us a lot about football and also a lot about life. I feel that the coaches and the players are all one family. This experience gives me a solid foundation to build on for my future."

Other players agree with Elam that force to be reckoned with and our expectations of him will be very high," said Shurden.

playing football at Holmes has contributed greatly to their lives and future plans.

"I think that Holmes Community College football has given me the self discipline I need to know that every goal is reachable. Bad choices limit future options. Playing H.C.C. football for me was not a bad choice," said sophomore tight end Caleb Carroll.

KEEP SPIRITS UP

by Bob Broomfield

The cheerleading squad, consisting of seven returning students and six freshman, kept Bulldog spirit high and support strong throughout both football and basketball season.

The returnees were Sam Sample, Chance May, Kelly Burrough, Kane Martin, Jennifer Parkinson, Shannon Childress, and Kristi Gallaway.

The six newcomers to the team were Tom Barnes, who served as the mascot, Casey Mullins, Jeremy Bryant, Tracie Alexander, Chastity May, and Jennifer Reed.

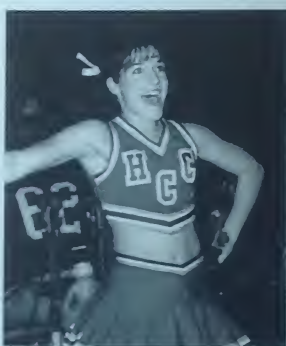

The team captains were Sample, Parkinson and Gallaway. Audra Kimble served as the sponsor.

The team started out their season by traveling to a camp at Ole Miss. At the camp they worked on perfecting their cheering and stunting techniques and participated in competitions against other squads at the camp in categories such as cheer and chant and fight song.

One of the main things that comes with being a cheerleader is keeping school spirit high. Kimble said it's great when the crowd shows great partici-talented squad," said Kimble. "They were a lot more responsible and came in ready to work from the beginning."

The cheerleaders got a lot more serious this year than the year before. "This year had to have been the most

The squad tried several different tactics to get the crowd involved and excited about the games. The cheerleaders had several more elite stunts, in-your-face kind of cheering, and more theme pep rallies. The students were involved with such pep rallies as the beach party and the Bulldog Olympics.

On game days, the football players looked forward to the team goodybags that were put together by the women on the squad. The guys had other responsibilities during this time.

The squad continued to perform more difficult stunts.

Burrough learned how to do the double cuppie, which is holding a girl in each hand above his head. This is probably one of the most difficult stunts.

The squad really liked being more advanced, which gave the squad the competitive edge with other squads throughout the state. The cheerleaders worked hard to perform as a group.

One of the captains, Jennifer Parkinson, said that one drawback for her was being captain.

"It was really tough at times and sometimes it felt as if no one wanted to listen to you," said Parkinson.

KIMBLE FINDS SMOOTHER SAILING IN SECOND SEASON

By Bob Broomfield

When Bulldog fans file in for a basketball game at Frank B. Branch Coliseum, they know they are in for a treat. Under the direction of Coach Todd Kimble, the men's basketball team fills the court with excitement. Now in his second year at his alma mater, Kimble has amassed an 0-0 record, which is an improvement over the first year's 8-18 record.

With only four returning players, including David Adams, Raymond Appleberry, Lartavious Carter, and Lemond Mitchell, the freshmen must also contribute to the team's success. The freshmen include George Arnold, Triaton Boyd, Quincy Hawkins, Roderick Patterson, Travis Richardson, Demond Watson, and Damien Perkins. Carter and Appleberry serve as the team captains.

The players and coach have a good relationship both on and off the court. Kimble is definitely the coach during the game, but he is also a friend and adviser to his players.

"On the court we mean business together, but off the court we can be and are friends," said Kimble.

David Adams, who was also Kimble's player in high school, said that he has learned a lot from Kimble and he has a great relationship with him. Most teams prefer to play on their home turf, and the Bulldogs are no exception to this rule. At Branch Coliseum, they have the crowd supporting them and are familiar with the court and the facilities.

The managers also play a big part in the team. They have a variety of responsibilities. Bert Vandevere, who is working with the Bulldogs for the first year, gained experience as a basketball manager in high school. At Holmes he watches films, practices when needed, helps draw plays, but most importantly he makes sure the players all have their uniforms straight and their shoes together for the games.

It takes the commitment and teamwork of the entire squad and support personnel to have a successful season. As their record demonstrates, the Bulldogs seem to have this in abundance.

Larry Therrell
Head Women's Basketball Coach

The Lady Bulldogs basketball squad prove that toughness and tenacity can produce winning results even when it seems as though the sun is not always shining upon you.

Head coach Larry Therrell was hoping that his seventh season at Holmes would prove to be a lucky one. But luck was something that was just not on their side.

From injuries which always seem to crop up with any team in any sport to the coliseum repairs which threw a monkey wrench into the second half of the season, the Lady Bulldogs often felt like they were fighting an uphill battle.

But this did not dampen their spirits or lessen their desire to win. They fought even harder, showing improvement throughout the season, especially from the free throw line.

Therrell had only two returning players. But what he lacked in quantity, he made up for in quality. Both Lucinda Britton and Deirdre Allen were leaders both on and off the court.

Britton, a 6'5 post from Velma Jackson High School, was named an All-State honorable mention as a freshman. She led the team in rebounds with 9.1 per game and was second in scoring with 10.3 points per game. She made 51.1 percent of her shots.

A 5'10.5 wing from Montgomery County High School, Deirdre Allen also saw a lot of time on the court as a freshman. She scored 7.8 ppg, made 62.7 percent of her shots from the

Along with Britton and Allen, the freshman, including Tiffany Chavis, a 5'8 forward from Willman, Ark.; Shonda Crozier, a 5'2 point guard from Yazoo County High School; Amanda Jones, a 5'9 forward from McAdams High School; Jennifer King, a 5'3 guard from Benton Academy; La'Keisha Lewis, a 5'5 guard from McAdams High School; Lakesha O'Briant, a 5'7 guard from East Webster High School; and Erickal Saulsberry, a 5'10 forward from Chatham, La. Tammy McDaniel joined the team second semester.

The Lady Bulldogs persevered and fought hard, amassing a 8-18 record for the season.

HOLMES FIELDS THREE SOCCER TEAMS

With teams on each of Holmes Community College's three campuses, soccer is in full swing this year. The Goodman Campus has the distinction of having the only female soccer team while both Ridgeland and Grenada have only men's soccer teams.

This was Grenada's first season to field a soccer team. Just like any athletic program starting out, Grenada experienced some hard times.

Coached by Michael Curry, they ended the 1998-99 season with a 1-15 record. This young program will experience some growing pains but could become one of the top junior college soccer teams in the state.

Now in its second year, the Ridgeland Campus squad, finished the season at .500 with a 10-10 record. This great accomplishment for a second year team. Coached by Mike Curley, the sky is the limit for this team.

The Lady Bulldogs soccer team is coached by Alex Tsema. These young women came out with the heart and desire of a champion.

They put a lot of hard work in their first season. If this continues, Holmes Community College may be looking at state champions in the near future.

Right. Grenada soccer team member Lee Makamson keeps his eye on the ball and his concentration high in the game against the Ridgeland Campus squad.

When the days get longer and brighter and warmer, you know it's time for baseball, America's favorite past-time.

Holmes Community College's first game of the 1999 season started out at home against Pearl River Community College on Feb. 13. This year's team consists of 12 sophomores and 12 freshman.

After the ending the season on a disappointing note last year, head coach Quinby Morgan and assistant coach Kenny Dupont were hoping for a better season all around this year. The 1998 team went from first place to third place in the latter part of last season.

Chase Frazure, a sophomore from Kosciusko, said, "The sophomores have showed more leadership on the field this year than they did last year."

Coach Morgan agreed. According to Morgan, singling out anyone as a key player would not be possible because "all of the sophomores have been this year."

Also helping out the team are the bat girls, who aren't usually hard to find at the baseball game. Well, this year is an exception, because there is only one this year instead of the usual five or six. The one and only bat girl this year is Allison McCrory, a sophomore from Lexington. If it were not for McCrory, the coaches would not be very happy after the game because a bat girl's main job is to keep the game books, which gives the stats of each player in the game.

Teams are usually like family or at least they should be. Every family has to have a leader. Just like families, teams have leaders too.

When you hear about Holmes Community College's Diamond Dogs do not think of them as just a team, think of them as a family.

Holmes Community College golf just keeps on getting better. A relative newcomer to the athletic offerings at the college, the golf team has enjoyed its share of successes.

Now in its seventh season, the squad has already built a solid foundation.

During the fifth season of Bulldog golf, Holmes sent two to Vass, N.C., to participate in the national tournament, for which only 40 are selected.

In the 1997-98 season, the team reached their lowest score in the last round of competition with a team score of 309, just 21 shots over par (288) as a team at Eagle Ridge Golf Course at Hinds.

With one returning golfer, Hunter Vaughn, and the rest freshmen, the 1998-99 hopes to continue this tradition of excellence and return to the national tournament.

LADY BULLDOGS SOFTBALL TEAM CONTINUES TO GAIN MOMENTUM

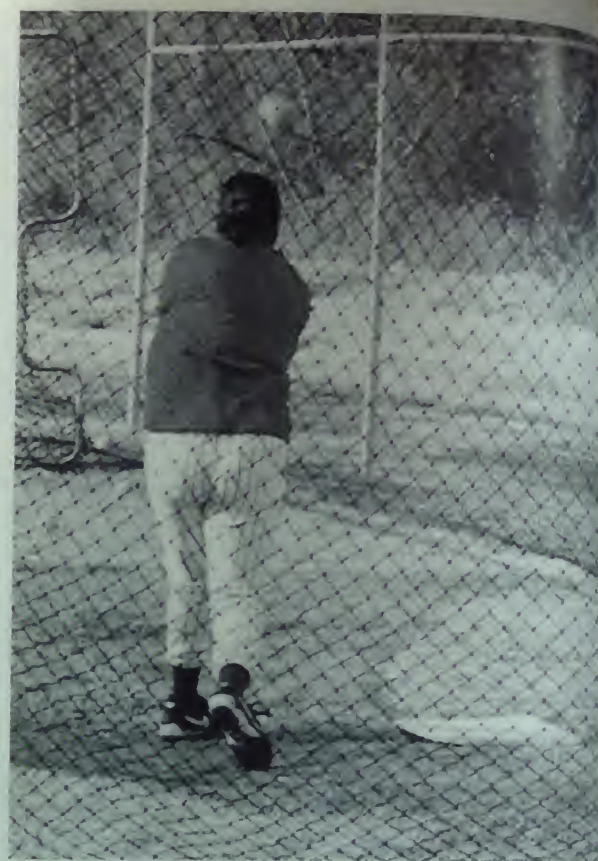

By Jennifer Pigg

With the athletic offerings at Holmes Community College continuing to expand, the women's sports at Holmes have certainly gained momentum over the past few years.

The Lady Bulldogs softball team is a particularly strong component of women's sports. Under the leadership of head coach Dan Edwards and assistant coach Terry Fancher, the team is filled with strong, ambitious, goal-striving females who are hitting and pitching their way to a better future.

And they are hoping that better future includes the state playoffs and even the championship.

Of course, getting there is never easy. From the long, hot practices to the occasional injuries to studying to keep up with their classes, the talented and dedicated members of the softball team prove they have what it takes to succeed. They let nothing keep them from practicing and playing their best.

"This is the best group of girls that I have had and they are also the hardest working team that I have coached," said Edwards.

Three of the standouts of the team include sophomores Jennifer Gurley, Tamara McDonald and Courtney Mansell. Gurley, who plays outfield, played out of position last year for the Lady Bulldogs.

Mansell is also an outfielder and a hitter for the team. McDonald plays shortstop.

The freshmen have also stepped up to the plate and taken on some new roles and all they players, according to Edwards, have paved the way to a winning season, even when facing tough opponents such as East Mississippi Community College in the north division and Jones County Junior College in the south division.

"The team is great and each one of us tries to encourage each other. The coaches that we have bring out character and point a lot of things out to us. They are really there for us and they push us to be all that we can be," said Vanessa Shumaker.

CROSS COUNTRY, TRACK

PROGRAMS CONTINUE

TO GO DISTANCE

Cross Country

Now in its fourth season, the cross country team, under the leadership of Coach Elton Wright, had three members, including Chastity May of Benton, Bob Broomfield of French Camp and Jody Corbett of Alexandria, La.

Although more members are required to have an official squad, the cross country worked hard and participated in meets across the state and at the national tournament held in November in Columbus, Ohio.

The distance athletes participating in cross country run on the juco level is greater than what they experienced in high school. In high school, the girls run two miles while they guys run 3.1 miles. At community college meets, the women increase their distance to 3.1 miles while the men run five miles.

The increase in distance can be difficult at the beginning of the season, but the runners adapt and gain more stamina as the season progresses.

Working with the two male runners helped May to become a better runner.

"The two guys really pushed me and made me a little faster. I had to run a little harder to keep up," said May.

Balancing classwork and practice time can be challenging.

"It is not easy being a student athlete," said Corbett.

The national tournament proved to be the squad's toughest competition. The runners were running on an unfamiliar course and it was very cold on race day.

Of course, in addition to improving as athletes, one of the greatest benefits of participating in sports is the camaraderie between the members of a team. And that was certainly strengthened by the trip to nationals.

Track

The three cross country runners also participate in track in the spring. The track team is coached by Alex Tsema and his wife Luba, who brings her experience as an

by Sundra Williams

A lot of people enjoy playing a leisurely game of tennis during the lazy days of summer. But the Holmes Community College tennis team begins working on their serves and strokes during the cold, windy days of January.

And it's not just a leisurely pastime to them, either. It is a game they approach with a serious competitive streak, especially when going up against their fiercest opponent, who is, according to Coach Tony Cook, the other HCC, Hinds Community College.

The 1999 team had only one returning member, Michael Johnson of Kosciusko. The squad is filled out by a number of talented newcomers, including Kenner Purvis of Canton, Kristi Gallaway of Benton, Wesley Jones and Mark Austin of Winona; Marsha Armstrong of Vaiden; Jennifer Davis and Jacob Dillion of Lexington; and Mark McLendon of Mobile, Ala.

Many of them competed on the state level in high school, so Cook was pleased with the assembled members.

"There are no key player," said Cook. "It is a good team."

What is the key to building friendships at HCC?

Being in various clubs and organizations has helped me to know a diverse and impressive group of people. These people have been a pleasure to know, and I think being loyal, trustworthy, and honest are the traits that draw people into relationships. Mrs. Tierce and Dr. Harville rule, and should be given a raise.

GRADUATION SERVES AS FINAL BRIDGE TO FUTURE

In his address to the Class of 1998, Dr. Starkey A. Morgan Sr., president of Holmes Community College, urged the graduates to believe in three things: God, themselves and their fellow man. He listed these beliefs as key ingredients to success.

Dr. Morgan became the seventh president of Holmes Community College on July 1, 1989, the same date that the college officially became Holmes Community College instead of Holmes Junior College.

He came to Holmes from Itawamba Community College, Fulton, where he had held positions as Administration and Business Director and as the Assistant Director of Vocational-Technical Education.

Dr. Morgan graduated from Greenville High School and received his bachelor's degree in education from Mississippi State University as well as his master's degree. In 1987, he earned the Doctor of Education Degree from the University of Mississippi.

Active in professional and civic affairs, Dr. Morgan is past-president of the Holmes County Economic Development Authority; serves on the executive committee of the Private Industry Council of the Central Mississippi Service Delivery Area; serves as a commissioner on the Mid-Delta Empowerment Zone Alliance; and serves as the secretary/treasurer of the Mississippi Association of Community and Junior Colleges (the organization for the community/junior college presidents).

During his tenure as president of the Holmes County Economic Development Authority, he spearheaded the establishment of the first full-time staff and office of the authority. In 1997, he represented the state at the annual conference of the Southern Economic Development Council in Winston-Salem, N.C.

He is married to the former Martha Rowe of Greenville and they have three children.

Lorraine, Starkey Jr., and Walter. They are members of the United Methodist Church.

Dr. Morgan has spent his adult life educating young people in several schools and colleges in the State of Mississippi. He is committed to improving educational programs which include not only the academic, vocational and technical areas, but also the arts and extra-curricular activities, such as academic honor societies and sports, so that students can develop into well-rounded, productive citizens.

Several students were recognized for achievements. Goodman Campus student Amber Alexander of Goodman received the M.C. McDaniel Award. Flora resident Steven Glascoe, a Ridgeland Campus student, received the Robert Cox Memorial Scholarship Award.

Goodman Campus student Dan Osborne was named the Outstanding Phi Theta Kappan for the Kappa Alpha chapter.

Ridgeland Campus student Nicole Barrett of Brandon received the Outstanding Phi Theta Kappan Award for the Alpha Lambda Sigma chapter of PTK.

Named Outstanding Phi Theta Kappan for the Alpha Mu Beta chapter of PTK was Brian Austin.

Goodman Campus students Tabitha Braswell and Melanie Sprayberry were named valedictorians. Cassandra Ramage, a student at the Grenada Center, was named salutatorian.

HOLMES IS A PLACE WE'LL REMEMBER ALL OUR LIVES

By Sundra Williams

We all are required to make choices in life. The choices that we make are the building blocks that determine where the roads in life will lead us. Building a better future means making the right choices and choosing the right roads that will make our future better. We have seen many changes at Holmes this year. Many of those changes will help us to build our future.

The increase in enrollment and the decrease in parking spaces means that many are trying to build better futures. The new networking and new computers will aid in our knowledge and understanding of what the world is becoming.

While the world is becoming more global, the personal connections made here at Holmes are the ties that will last a lifetime. The sights and sounds of Holmes will remain with us always.

We will remember the roar of the fans as the mighty Bulldogs make their move in the sports arena; the voices of angels as we listen to the variety of choirs and vocal groups; the trumpets and the beating of drums as the band marches its way into our hearts.

We have met many new faces during the course of the year and those who were once mere acquaintances now seem like family. Their friendship and support is one of the most important elements in building a better future.

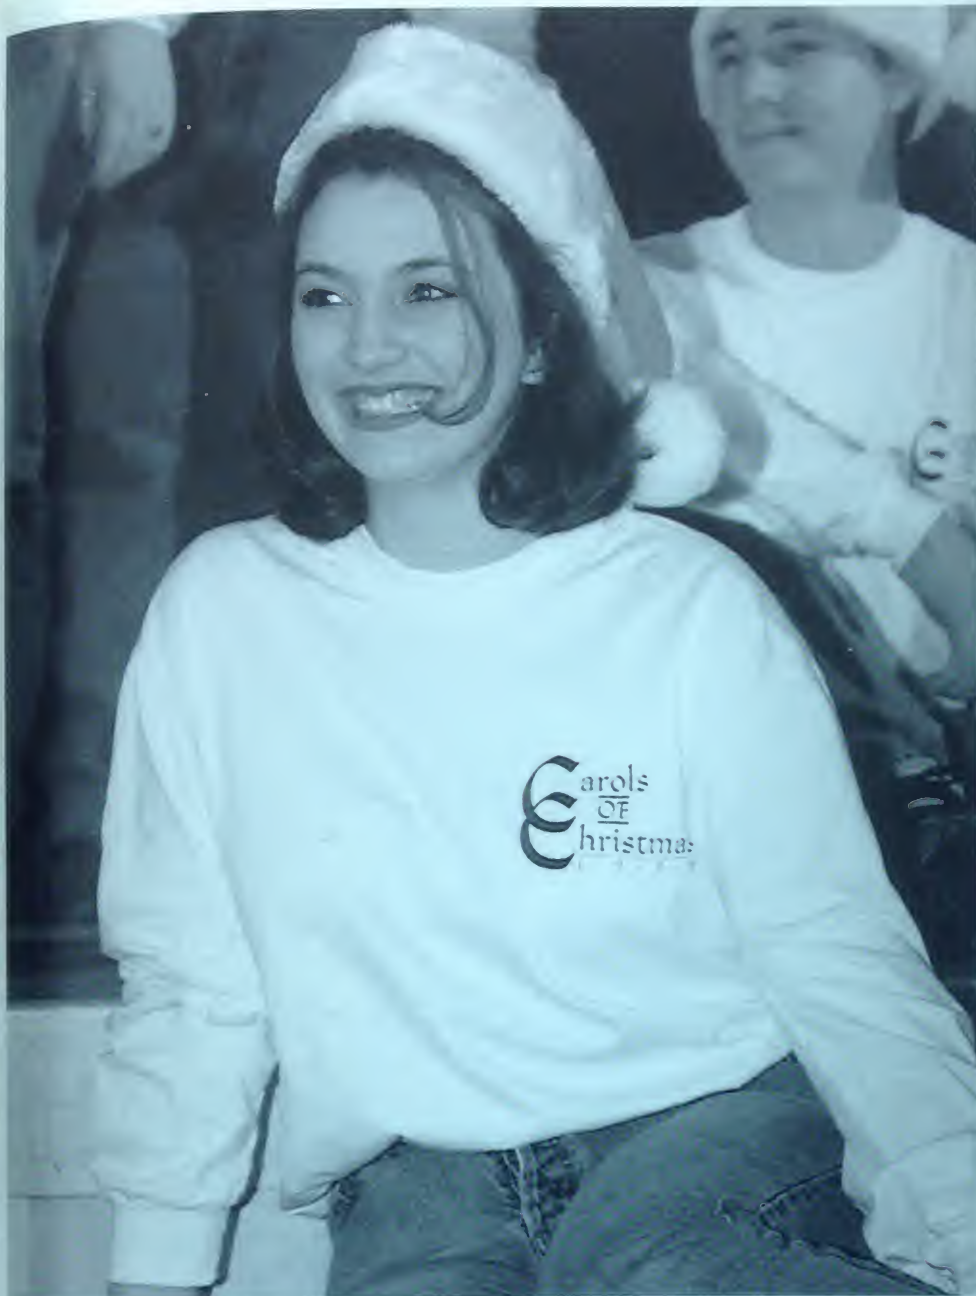

Everyone who attended Holmes this year has had experiences that they will never forget. Whether it was a tough instructor, a trip, an event in the dorm, or simply hanging out, attending Holmes has been the experience of a lifetime.

STAFF MEMBERS REFLECT ON MEMORABLE MOMENTS, PREPARE TO EXPLORE NEW HORIZONS

"I really enjoy being at Holmes. One gets to meet a lot of neat people and get involved with a lot of things."

—Bob Broomfield

"It has been a great two years here at HCC. The people are friendly; the classes are down to earth; if only there were a little more to do."

—R.C. Hutchinson

"My two years at Holmes have been the greatest and I am going to miss it. The faculty, staff and students are wonderful people. They are all nice and very supportive. I have met a lot of people here and will treasure the friendships that I have made. Being assistant editor has brought me closer to a lot of people. Good luck everyone and God bless."

—Jennifer Pigg

"Holmes has given me the opportunity to experience college life and the so-called 'real world'."

—Desmond Purnell

"I have enjoyed working with the staff this year. We have had lots of fun and laughs and have done lots of hard work."

—Sundra Williams

LETTER FROM THE EDITOR

Making choices is a part of life, living, and growing. The choices that we choose to make now will affect the choices that we are allowed to make in the future. Your professionalism in the long run will be a stepping stone, no matter what your educational level is. So, as we go through life, let us always remember that the simple things are most often the most important things, and they are what you will be most remembered by. I have seen many changes at Holmes this year, but it is the simple things that I will remember most, like the paving of the parking lot between the Business Tech Building and the Math and Science Building, the increased number of new faces and decreased number of parking spaces, and the smell of the freshly gathered natural fertilizer in January. There were changes on the Horizons staff this year such as all of the new faces, new ideas and the new friendships that began. I would like to thank Jennifer, my assistant editor for helping out with the staff when I was not available. Thank you, Bob, for coming back for two more exciting semesters. Desmond thanks for the many laughs and for the excitement in my many adventures. Shameka and Sharonda thanks for the fun times in class and for working so hard on the homecoming banner. To R.C. and Christie thanks for joining second semester and helping to complete the book. Mrs. Blanton, thanks for all the help through the year and for all of the other things you do. To all of the people we interviewed, and took pictures of, thank you for your time and patience.
